

Dine with over-the-top holiday decor

by Eric Grossman, Special for USA TODAY | Published on December 17, 2015

While there's nothing quite like a festive holiday gathering at home, there are thousands of dining destinations that pull out all the stops come holiday time, filling every nook and cranny with colorful decorations and twinkling lights. This holiday season, take a break from entertaining at home and let the professionals do all the work. Get into the holiday spirit while enjoying a meal at one of these festive options for holiday dining, from a cozy New England farmhouse to a table inside of a gingerbread house or a festive Beverly Hills spot. Browse the gallery above for the best dining destinations with holiday decorations across the country.

Located in the lobby of The Vendue in Charleston, the Drawing Room is filled with elegant holiday décor. Jonathan Boncek, courtesy of The Vendue.

Christmas trees are lit with white lights accented with gold garland and subtle deep red ornaments, playing off the numerous Poinsettias scattered about the room. Jonathan Boncek, courtesy of The Vendue

Christmas trees are lit with white lights accented with gold garland and subtle deep red ornaments, playing off the numerous Poinsettias scattered about the room. Jonathan Boncek, courtesy of The Vendue

Situated in the heart of the city's historic French Quarter, The Vendue and Drawing Room are renowned for a notable art collection and elegant architectural details. Jonathan Boncek, courtesy of The Vendue